BOOSTING FOR NEVADA.

ONE of the best boosters this state has is the National Copper bank, of which Senator Thomas Kearns, of Tonopah-Halifax fame, is an active director. This bank issues a monthly circular reviewing the crop and financial conditions of the territory tributary to Salt Lake. Incidentally, the bank covers a good portion of Nevada, as it takes a pride in believing this state has to look to Salt Lake rather than to San Francisco for an outlet. The latest trade and finance letter is a predigested article that should be hammered home into the inner consciousness of every man interested in agricultural development. It is an argument for adoption of live stock and hay as the best means of gathering in the ready cash at all seasons of the year. Other crops, the bulletin states, leave the farmer in the clutch of the banker, to whom he is forced to appeal for funds to carry him through to the end of the harvest. With live stock and grasses there is always a pig or two, or a steer, that can be sold on the premises for ready cash, and thus the grower is absolved from paying heavy interest rates to the man with the money. This is a singular argument from a concern that makes its money from lending money to the very classes who are advised to clear themselves from interest obligations. Such a broad, generous system is to be admired, but it is one on a parity with the conduct of all corporations in which Senator Kearns holds an interest. The conduct of his mines has been on the same high plane. His motto is to treat the men right and see to their welfare, and in this way he always succeeds in getting employees who have his interests at heart and whose interests are made identical with their own.

Kearns sprang from the loins of labor, but he was too keen a business man to remain pushing the muck stick, and soon graduated into the capitalist class. The indolent or indifferent may ascribe this to luck, but to those who have made a study of luck it always seems as though the men who are alleged to be lucky went out and searched for fortunes that eluded others of less energy.

An abstract from the circular of the National Copper bank is worth reproducing: "There is not a single logical reason why this intermountain empire, so highly favored of nature, should import dressed meats by the trainload from Omaha and Chicago, should buy butter and cheese by the carload from Wisconsin, and even import it from New Zealand. It is ridiculous that all these places should be supplying us when we ought to be supplying both ourselves and them. In one valley alone this year a condensed milk company paid farmers $1,500,000 for their milk alone. The money comes into the hands of the farmers in monthly installments and, more than any other industry, not even excepting the sugar factories, has established the credit of the valley."

Five of those undesirable citizens of whom Senator Key Pittman never seems to tire of picking out for invidious discrimination have bid farewell to Humboldt county and gone back home to Spain. If Senator Pittman wished to repel immigration he could not have succeeded better than by his treatment of the sheep industry and the men who tended the flocks of Nevada. Five Basque flockmasters of the McDermitt country have sold out and taken their capital out of the state. The Humboldt Star says the aggregate amount of their wealth ran into the thousands.

Utah is trying to blame its outlaws on Nevada. Not satisfied with charging Lopez with coming from this state, a late report accuses a recent Salt Lake bank hold-up with an Elko pedigree. As usual, no proofs are forthcoming, and the fact that Nevada is the best ordered state in the union is sufficient to controvert such scandalous stories.

The monthly statement of dividends looks lonesome without half a million or so from Tonopah. Just happens to be the period when bullion shipments take the place of profit disbursements. One is the forerunner of the other.

Ohio will have to take a back seat when it comes to counting professional politicians. California has the Buckeye state beat by a mile since the initiative came into vogue. Three new elections are already scheduled for the next ballot, including anti-capital punishment, universal eight-hour law and anti-poll tax.

Eggs cannot be such a luxury in Fresno when the farmers of that district fed them and egg sandwiches to an army of Indians. Probably sold storage unloading what the importers want out.

Life is not safe in California. Between bandits and saloon hold-ups the toll of death reached the frightful total of ten in the past week. Looks like too much infusion of "Dago red."

Portland, Ore., claims credit for the meanest man. He took the $600 dowry of his bride and scattered it in the street and then held his newly made father-in-law up for a stake.

It is a very thoughtful act of the government not to ask the poor man to report his income. This concession will be gratefully appreciated.

President Wilson is as immobile as ever when asked about the Mexican situation. Manana is good enough.

Petahuma hens are cackling over the high cost of living.
